DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

2. Claims 1-20 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Ruaen (US PG Pub No. 2004/0015408).

As to claim 1, Ruaen discloses:

providing at least one web server, at least one language database and a management interface, wherein each web server corresponds to at least one language and displays at least a static data and a dynamic data, each static data being stored in the corresponding web server, each language database corresponding to a specific language and storing all dynamic data in specific language type (see paragraph [0744]); modifying the dynamic data via the management interface (see paragraph [0023]); and linking each web server to language databases with same language, such that the web server acquires corresponding dynamic data (see paragraph [0788]).

As to claim 2, Ruaen discloses:

further comprising combining and displaying the static and dynamic data by the web server (see paragraph [0696] - site comprised of static and dynamic content).

As to claim 3, Ruaen discloses:

further comprising the following steps:

amending at least one dynamic data via the management interface while the amended dynamic data required to be updated (see paragraph [0023]); and storing the amended dynamic data to at least one language database corresponding to the same language of the amended dynamic data (see paragraph [0759]).

As to claim 4, Ruaen discloses:

wherein the management interface is on at least one of the web servers (see paragraph [0327]).

As to claim 5, Ruaen discloses:

wherein the management interface is on at least one server including at least one language database (see paragraphs [0327] and [0744]).

As to claim 6, Ruaen discloses:

wherein each of the language database could be stored on at least one web server (see paragraph [0744]).

As to claim 7, Ruaen discloses:

wherein the management interface is on the web server that includes the language database (see paragraphs [0327] and [0744]).

As to claim 8, Ruaen discloses:

wherein the language database is stored on a database server (see paragraph [0744]).

As to claim 9, Ruaen discloses:

wherein the management interface is on the database server (see paragraph [0593]).

As to claim 10, Ruaen discloses:

wherein each web server corresponds only to one specific language type (see paragraph [0788]).

As to claim 11, Ruaen discloses:

at least one database server, each database server including at least one language database, each language database corresponding to a specific language and storing at least one dynamic data in the specific language type (see paragraph [0744]); a management interface to modify the dynamic data (see paragraph [0023]); and at least one web server coupled with at least one database server and to display both the static data and the dynamic data, the static data being stored in the web server, the dynamic data being stored in the language database and are acquired by the web server (see paragraph [0788]).

As to claim 12, Ruaen discloses:

wherein the management interface is on at least one web server (see paragraph [0327]).

As to claim 13, Ruaen discloses:

wherein the management interface is on at least one database server (see paragraphs [0327] and [0744]).

As to claim 14, Ruaen discloses:

wherein each web server further combines and displays the static data and the dynamic data (see paragraph [0696] - site comprised of static and dynamic content).

As to claim 15, Ruaen discloses:

wherein the management interface further transfers the modified dynamic data in the specific language type and stores it in the language database while the modified dynamic data needed to be updated (see paragraphs [0023] and [0759]).

As to claim 16, Ruaen discloses:

wherein the management interface further transfers the modified dynamic data in the specific language type and stores it in the web server while the modified dynamic data needed to be updated (see paragraphs [0023] and [0759] – if the db is on the web server then the dynamic data is also on the web server).

As to claim 17, Ruaen discloses:

a first program code for linking (wherein the examiner is interpreting for linking as intended use recitation. More definite language such as "to link" should be recited.) to at least one language database having dynamic data in a specific language type and storing at least one dynamic data in the specific language type (see paragraph [0788]); a second program code for modifying the dynamic data via a management interface (see paragraph [0023]); and a third program code for transmitting the dynamic data, especially the modified dynamic data, to the web server in the specific language type (see paragraph [0759]).

As to claim 18, Ruaen discloses:

further comprising a fourth program code for combining and displaying the static data and the dynamic data on the web server (see paragraph [0696] - site comprised of static and dynamic content).

As to claim 19, Ruaen discloses:

wherein the management interface is on at least one web server (see paragraph [0327]).

As to claim 20, Ruaen discloses:

wherein the language database is stored on at least one database server, and the management interface is on at least one database server (see paragraphs [0327] and [0744]).

Conclusion

Any inquiry concerning this communication or earlier communications from the examiner should be directed to Johnese Johnson whose telephone number is 571-270-1097. The examiner can normally be reached on 4/5/9.

If attempts to reach the examiner by telephone are unsuccessful, the examiner's supervisor, Hosain Alam can be reached on 571-272-3978. The fax phone number for the organization where this application or proceeding is assigned is 571-273-8300.
